

Bella Angora vs. Christian Falsnaes

Stalke Out Of Space # 36

Place: North Gallery - Copenhagen

7 - 22. December 2007

Bella Angora vs. Christian Falsnaes was presented as part of Stalke Out Of Space: No. 36.

The exhibition examined mechanisms of competition within contemporary art, taking its point of departure in the artists' own collaborative and confrontational working processes. Conceived as a form of artistic duel, the exhibition unfolded as a dynamic exchange between Bella Angora and Christian Falsnaes, where cooperation and rivalry became central themes.

Through installation-based works, the exhibition explored how artistic identities are negotiated, tested, and challenged within shared creative structures. The project emphasized tension, dialogue, and performative strategies, framing competition not as opposition alone, but as a productive force within artistic practice.

The exhibition was shown at North Art Space in Copenhagen and ran until December 22, 2007.

